MIDDLEBURY HOLDS WINTER CARNIVAL

Ski and Snow Shoe Races Run on Campus

WALSH '23 WINS SKI JUMP

Evening Given to Tobogganing and Fireworks

Despite the severe cold and a strong wind Middlebury turned out Saturday afternoon to enjoy an intra mural winter carnival that proved to be the most successful ever staged here. The program was in charge of Coach Dave B. Morey and the Outing Club and included ski and snowshoe races for men and women, ski jumping and toboggan sliding in the evening.

Events Run on Campus

With the exception of the ski jumping contest which was held on the hill in the rear of the Chapman estate, the events were all run off on the campus, a 200 yard course having been laid out below old college row. Two interfraternity contests were arranged, a ski and snow shoe relay for 800 yards. In the ski relay the Chi Psi team made up of Hodson, Ross, Peck and Baldwin romped home ahead of the field. The contest for second place was close, Delta Upsilon nosing out Delta Kappa Epsilon at the finish. In the interfraternity snow shoe relay Alpha Sigma Phi showed the way to Chi Psi and Delta Upsilon.

75 ATTEND N. Y. ALUMNI DINNER

Allen H. Nelson '01 Elected President of Association—Pass Resolutions on Death of Mr. Hepburn

Seventy-five attended the annual dinner and election of the New York Alumni Association Friday evening at the University Club, including Albert H. Wiggin, recently elected to the Board of Trustees, and President Paul D. Moody. Mindful of the absence of one of its most prominent members, one of Middlebury's most generous benefactors, the association passed a resolution on the death of Dr. A. Barton Hepburn '71. This tribute was supplemented by personal remarks of Dr. Charles Baker Wright, emphasizing the greatness of the man as he knew him. The address is printed elsewhere in The Campus.

Following the five-course dinner, addresses were made by several former associates and teachers of President Moody who were guests of the association. These included Prof. Charles Sears Baldwin, Ph. D., of Yale, Prof. Charles Downer Hazen, Ph. D., Litt. D., also of Yale, Rev. William Raymond Jelliffe and Right Rev. Herbert Shipman, D. D., the latter having served with the U. S. Army Chaplains overseas. Other addresses were made by Dr. Vernon C. Harrington '91 on college spirit, and by Albert F. Gollnick '22, as representative of the undergraduate body. In his remarks President Moody discussed the present situation and future policy of the college with regard to the separation of the two colleges. Following the speeches stereopticon slides were shown of Middlebury.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are: Allen H. Nelson '01, president; Thomas H. Ormsbee '15, secretary; and Edward C. Hooker '00, Kenneth M. Gorham '18, Joseph P. Kasper '20, members of the standing committee. The retiring president, Louis W. Severy '00, presided at the dinner.

CONNECTICUT ALUMNI DINNER IN BRIDGEPORT

The annual dinner of the Middlebury alumni of Connecticut will be held March 4 in Bridgeport at The Farm of the Black Rock Country Club. The program includes a reunion at four o'clock, business meeting at five and dinner at six. Dancing will follow the dinner from eight until twelve.

The dinner will serve to introduce President Paul D. Moody to the alumni of Connecticut. Professor Myron R. Sanford of the Department of Latin has signified his intention to attend the reunion and it is expected that several of the other professorswill also be present.

Contains Many Prominent French Instructors.

Summer Session to Continue Chapel and Evening Entertainments

Announcement of practically the complete personnel of the French Summer School faculty for 1922 was made yesterday by Dean H. P. Williamson de Visme. The faculty for the coming season is considered by the dean as one of the outstanding accomplishments of the French School in obtaining the services of many of the ablest teachers in this country and France.

The administration plans to continue the Sunday devotional services held at eleven o'clock in Mead Memorial Chapel and open to the public, which last year added excrises iniche wechich last year added greatly to the life of the school. The unprecedented success of the evening excercises in Pearsons Hall has led the Dean to enlarge their scope for the coming summer. Much attention will be paid to plays and recitations, and special lectures are to be added on topics of interest to students of French history, politics and social problems.

DR. COLLINS NO LONGER PROVOST

Acceptance of Resignation Announced

TO DIRECT SUMMER SESSION

Schools Have Grown Rapidly Under Dr. Collins

The resignation of Dr. Edward Day Collins as Provost and Professor of Pedagogy has only recently been announced, although it was presented to the college authorities earlier in the year. Dr. Collins continues during the present year as Director of the Summer Session. His resignation from the other positions which he has been occupying will secure for him a needed rest and release from the multiplicity of duties which has devolved upon him during the last two years and will allow him to give more time to the development of Summer Session interests. The phenomenal growth of the Middlebury Summer Session in recent years has brought administrative problems peculiar to itself to which one man may well devote his entire time.

The development of the Summer Session, now comprising five special schools of English, French, Spanish, Music, and Chemistry, has been in no small degree the work of Dr. Collins, and the success it has attained has been due to his far-sighted vision and exceptional powers of organization. The idea of specialized instruction, as exemplified in the modern language schools through which Middlebury has attained a national reputation, is a distinctive contribution to American education.

Summer School Growing Rapidly

The Summer Session has grown with remarkable rapidity since its founding, and the business connected with it has increased in even greater proportion. The enrollment in 1921 numbered 388 students, an attendance which exceeds the undergraduate enrollment of the college in any year previous to 1920-21. The faculty of the Summer Session in 1921 numbered 47, exceeding in number the regular faculty of the college and embracing many of the most brilliant teachers of modern language. Dr. Milo B. Hillegas, former Commissioner of Education in Vermont, remarked several years ago after visiting the modern language schools that no such aggregation of modern language teachers had ever been brought together in this

Mr. Albert H. Wiggin

A. WIGGIN WIDELY KNOWN FINANCIER

Chairman of Board at Chase National Bank

Associated With Late Dr. A. Barton Hepburn '71 Since 1904

Albert Henry Wiggin, who was elected a trustee of Middlebury College Friday, was born February 21, 1868 at Medfield, Mass. He graduated from the Dwight School in Boston in 1882 and from English High School in Boston in 1885.

Mr. Wiggin started in the field of banking as a clerk in 1895 and six years later became assistant national bank examiner of Boston. His rise in the financial world was rapid and marked by successive steps as assistant cashier of the Third National Bank of Boston, 1894-97; vice-president Eliot National Bank of Boston 1897-99; vice-president National Park Bank, Mt. Morris Bank and the Mutual Bank of New York 1899-1904. In 1904 he became vice-president and director of the Chase National Bank, and in 1911 rose to the presidency when the late Hon. A. Barton Hepburn '71 resigned this position and became chairman of the board of directors.

Made Chairman of Board in 1918

Mr. Wiggin followed rapidly in the footsteps of Mr. Hepburn at the Chase and when the latter became chairman of the advisory board, Mr. Wiggin was chosen chairman of the board in January 1918. For many years he has been one of the chief directing forces in the Chase Bank which is one of the three largest banks in New York City and one of the most influential financial institutions in the country. Mr. Wiggin is also president of the Chase Securities Corporation.

Mr. Wiggin has a multitude of business interests and connections and is director of many leading industries and banking houses such as the Astor Trust, The Western Union Telegraph Co., the Missouri Pacific Railroad, the Hudson and Manhattan Co., Westinghouse, American Locomotive Co., American Sugar Refining Co., and many others.

PRESIDENT MOODY TO BE INAUGURATED THIS JUNE

Vote to Construct Temporary Recitation Hall on Women's Campus— Professor Robinson Faculty Secretary

Mr. Albert H. Wiggin, president of the Chase National Bank and chairman of the board, was elected a member of the board of trustees of Middlebury College at a meeting of the trustees held Friday in the office of James M. Gifford '77 at 60 Broadway, New York City. Mr. Wiggin succeeds the late Hon. A. Barton Hepburn '71.

Commencement Date Changed

Arrangements were made at the trustee meeting to hold the formal inauguration of President Paul Dwight Moody at Commencement time. To make it possible to have representatives from other colleges, it was deemed necessary to move the date of Commencement ahead one week. The Baccalaureate Service will be changed from June 18 to June 11. Professor Charles B. Wright, representing the faculty, and Mr. James M. Gifford, representing the trustees, have been chosen to head the committees on arrangements.

Temporary Recitation Building

A temporary recitation building will be erected on the campus of the Women's College to relieve the crowded situation in the present buildings. It is expected that the new structure, while intended for use principally for the freshmen women, will also house part of the work of the department of Home Economics. It will be constructed during the summer and will be used only until a permanent building can be erected.

Action concerning the proposal to limit the entering class to one hundred men and sixty women was continued until the next meeting of the trustees which will be held in June. The trustees considered favorably the proposition that as far as possible and as fast as advisable, the college adopt the principle of prescribed work for freshmen and sophomore years. This will mean that the underclassmen be more rigidly restricted in the choice of their courses than heretofore but the present leniency will continue for juniors and seniors.

Trustees Create New Office

The trustees created the office of secretary of the faculty and Duane L. Robinson '05, Morton Professor of French, was appointed to the post. It is intended that the duties of the office shall include some of those formerly executed by the provost, this latter office having been abolished upon the resignation of Dr. Edward D. Collins, to devote his entire time to the work of the Summer Session.

Several promotions in the faculty were made by the trustees. Assistant Professor Luther I. Bonney becomes a professor in the department of Mathematics, and Mr. John J. Howes becomes an assistant professor in the department of History. The appointments will become operative July 1.

VOL. XVIII Feb. 22, 1922 NO. 18

Albert H. Wiggin

Middlebury is fortunate in the selection of Mr. Albert H. Wiggin as trustee to succeed the late Dr. A. Barton Hepburn '71 whose untimely death robbed this college of one of its dearest friends and staunchest supporters. Mr. Wiggin was for a long time a follower of Mr. Hepburn's and has many times succeeded him in office of high trust since his connection with the second largest bank in New York city. When Mr. Hepburn resigned the presidency of the Chase Bank to become chairman of the board, Vice-President Wiggin was chosen to fill the office he had vacated; when Mr. Hepburn became chairman of the advisory board, President Wiggin became chairman of the board. And now it is fitting that he should take his place on the board of trustees of the college which graduated the man with whom he has entertained an almost father and son relationship.

Mr. Wiggin is both a practical business man and an affable gentleman. Through his long and intimate association with Mr. Hepburn, he posseses a keen appreciation of his predecessor's ideals and ambitions for Middlebury and the college can look to him with confidence to continue the purposes which dominated the man whose death we mourn. The Campus, speaking for the undergraduate body, welcomes his appointment. Middlebury can ask no more than that he shall be guided in his relations to her with the same stubborn honesty which so aptly characterized Dr. Hepburn.

Self-Help Opportunities

The statistics printed in the preceding issue of The Campus show that a comparatively large percentage of the students at Middlebury are meeting their own college expenses, at least in part. Every effort is made to give opportunities to those who desire to become self-supporting and every possible form of employment is turned to account. Credit is certainly due in large measure to the Dean's who make this self-help possible and more than that to the men and women who avail themselves of it.

Courage, and perserverance are necessary to meet this burden of work which must be additional to that required in the regular college curriculum. No inconsiderable amount of time, effort and recreation must be sacrificed to gain those benefits, which come to many as a matter of course. Yet these students have a certain advantage over others whose course may follow smoother lines. They are experiencing character, molding influences of which the average student has no conception. They will be better fitted proportionally to enter upon the duties of the outside world at the close of the four years of college work.

In addition, these men and women are a characteristic element of Middlebury. Every encouragement should be given this type of ambitious student who must yet be dependent on his own resources. He forms a healthful part of the institution, a part which adds an element of sturdiness and independence to it. —A. M. L.

RESOLUTION

Adopted at the Meeting of the President and Fellows of Middlebury College Held Febury 17, 1922.

Alonzo Barton Hepburn was elected a Fellow of Middlebury College in June 1905, but did not consent to serve until June 1909. At the time of his acceptance of the trust the College was in a transition period. Her endowment was meagre, her buildings and equipment were inadequate and her Faculty few in number. Only when he realized that his trusteeship would open a great field for service did he undertake the duties which his election had imposed. Thereafter until his death he viewed his relation with the college as a sacred trust, and at all times he gave his counsel, his labors, his co-operation and his fortune to the upbuilding of his Alma Mater.

The increase in buildings, endowment, and number of students and the position of prominence which the College now holds are due in no small part to the advice, influence and gifts of our fellow Trustee.

In all movements and undertakings he was the wise leader and counsellor, and yet he was ever the plain, unassuming friend of the College and its student body. He was a man of deep sympathies; he delighted in his ability to lighten the burdens of the oppressed; to render the lives of others happier and to use his talents and wealth in the interest of his fellowmen. He hated sham and ostentation. He loved the simple life, the forests, the streams, the mountains and the folk that dwell therein—and yet he was a leader of men, without a superior in the business and financial life of the great Metropolis.

He was always helpful, just and generous. The College and the youth who have known him are indeed rich in the life which they have been permitted to touch ,even remotely. His rise through his own efforts from the country lad to the great banker and economist should constitute an inspiration to all connected with his Alma Mater. His influence and character have been so woven into the very being of the College that they will mold and fashion the hopes and destinies of Middlebury's students for years to come.

Others will take up his work, but the unique place which he held will never be filled.

We, his fellow Trustees, are grateful for his noble deeds, for the service which he has rendered his Alma Mater and for the loving friendship which we have all enjoyed, and record in resolution this expression of our profound loss.

RESOLUTION

New York Alumni Pay Tribute to Memory of the Late Dr. A. Bar-Hepburn '71

At the annual meeting of the Middlebury College Alumni Association of the City of New York, held at the University Club on the evening of February 17, 1922, the following memorial was presented by Professor Charles B. Wright, of Middlebury College:

We have met to-night in the shadow of a great loss, and I count it a peculiar privilege that I have been asked to offer, on behalf of this Association, a word of affectionate remembrance, that our records may show, through the coming years, our love for the man whose death we mourn, and the honor in which we held him. It is a service gladly rendered, however imperfectly, for I think of the friendship he gave me as among the happiest features of my Middlebury life. But our thought to-night is rather of his relations to the College, and it is to those that I would confine it. What a debtor Middlebury is to his never-wearied devotion! She owes him much for material gifts, but by any true test of a college's worth she owes him more for the noble life that adds lustre to her name. For colleges, like wisdom, are justified of their children, and who, of all her distinguished sons, has exemplified better, in his career, the purpose and goal of her training—a goal and purpose expressed so well in "Scientia et Virtus", the legend of her seal? It is life like his that exalts a college, even as righteousness exalts a nation. And now we shall honor his memory most if we turn our faces forward. "The worker dies, the work lives", said Wesley; and for us, too, the work remains—the unfinished work that he who is gone had so constantly at heart.

I offer, then, for your adoption, this brief memorial:

RESOLUTION

The New York alumni of Middlebury College, gathered in annual session, would place upon record their profound sense of the loss sustained in the death of Doctor Hepburn. The qualities of mind and heart that endeared him to them all, and that made his name upon their rolls an increasing cause for pride, make it indeed no common loss. They recall the largeness of his aims and his achievement; the scope and wisdom of his benefactions; his unswerving loyalty to the College, and his far-seeing plans for its betterment. Even more they recall, as they miss his presence for the first time, the quiet friendliness that enriched their meetings, and the sympathy that made available always, for even the youngest alumnus, the careful counsel that so many came to prize. That gracious friendship, so helpful, so stimulating, is theirs to enjoy no longer, but the memory of it, and of what he was, is their permanent possession; it is a memory to be cherished—the memory of unassuming worth, and of splendid powers generously devoted to all good ends.

Praise Record of Outing Club Team—Suggests Development of Winter Sports Instead of Basketball

To the Editor of The Campus:—

It was with interest that I read in the New York papers last week of the creditable record the Middlebury Outing Club team made at the Dartmouth Winter Carnival. Since 1917 Outing Club teams have gone to Hanover and have come through with points all out of proportion to the number of men entered, and to the preparation made for the events. From all accounts, that was what happened this year. With this in view I wonder what the Middlebury team could have accomplished if they had prepared, for instance as the track team does for a meet. They could have taken first place without a doubt.

Your editorial two weeks ago calling for support of the Outing Club is well taken, but it would seem that unless some one is employed to coach winter sports and give them leadership, they will never amount to much at Middlebury. From the standpoint of publicity, winter sports in value surpass any other activity, with the exception of football. The country is winter sport crazy. Meanwhile, their development at Middlebury stands about where it did back in 1916 when the Outing Club was formed. It appears that basketball has not been entirely successful at Middlebury this year. Basketball has certainly not proved to be what was claimed for it when it was made a 'varsity sport. Apparently it is a costly sport to maintain. How would it do to scrap 'varsity basketball for a year and put the same money into winter sports, erecting a ski jump, perhaps, and employing a coach for a period? There are expert ski men at Lake Placid, Berlin, N. H., and other places who could be secured for a short period. Leadership of this sort would meet with spontaneous support of the student body and would benefit practically every one instead of a half-score of 'varsity players, as is the case with basketball.

The above are only suggestions made on the basis of what I have observed while in college, and from reading news and comment in The Campus. Perhaps I am misinformed on some of the minor points, but I believe that Middlebury is making a mistake in failing to develope a proper interest in winter sports, for which the college has natural facilities which can not be surpassed.

QUINTET LOSES TWO ON N. YORK TRIP

Clarkson Tech Wins First Game 31-20

St. Lawrence Swamps Middlebury 40-13 in Contest Saturday

A pair of defeats were handed the Middlebury 'Varsity basketball team when they met the fast Clarkson Tech outfit at Potsdam, N. Y., last Friday night losing by a 31-20 count, and on Saturday when they played a return game with the St. Lawrence five at Canton, coming away on the small end of a 40-13 score.

In the first game the Blue kept the Engineers busy, Hardy and Rich playing a fast game in the forward berths, while Captain Leonard and Ryan endeavored to stop the offensive playing of the Potsdam team. The first half was by far the best of the contest, for Middlebury kept the Clarkson team fighting for the lead, and at half time were but five points behind.

It was during the second half that both teams showed real fight, with Middlebury adding nearly twice as many points as she had scored in the first half to her score. Timberman was substituted for Reinbrecht, and made a very creditable showing, caging three baskets and being high point man for the Blue during the second half, while Hardy held that honor for the entire game, caging two baskets during each period.

The playing of the engineers was obviously too fast for the Middlebury team and the final issue was at no time in doubt, though the scoring was close enough at times to create considerable interest.

The summary:—

Clarkson 31	Middlebury 20
Breckenridge, r.f.	r.f., Hardy
Calderalle, l.f.	l.f., Rich
Bucher, c.	c., Reinbrecht
McGuiggan, r.g.	r.g., Leonard
Randall, l.g.	l.g., Ryan

Goals from the field: for Clarkson—Breckenridge (8), Calderella (4), Bucher (2), McGuiggan; for Middlebury—Hardy (4), Timberman (3), Leonard (2), Rich. Goals from fouls: for Clarkson—McGuiggan; For Middlebury—Leonard (2). Substitutions: for Clarkson—Bezoit for Bucher, Wilson for Randall; for Middlebury—Timberman for Reinbrecht, Edwards for Ryan, Axtel for Rich. Referee, Sission, Dartmouth; Scorer, Cole '22. Time of halves 20 minutes.

'Varsity Loses To St. Lawrence

Playing at Canton on the following night, the St. Lawrence quintet flashed an aggressive five that fairly took the lead early in the game, and held a wide mirgin on the Blue throughout. The game was marked by many fouls, which St. Lawrence took advantage of to the extent of adding seven points to their score.

Hardy again led the Middlebury team, collecting four baskets to his credit, while Captain Leonard caged two. Colon of St. Lawrence occupied the stellar role for the Canton team, tossing six baskets from the floor.

The summary:—

St. Lawrence 40	Middlebury 17
Connery, l. f.	l. f. Hardy
Morgan, r.g.	r.g., Axtell
Colon, c.	c. Reinbrecht
Bird, l. g.	l. g. Ryan
Atwood, r. g.	r. g. Leonard

Goals from the floor; For St. Lawrence—Conlon 6, Connery 5, Bird 3, Hunt 2, Atwood; For Middlebury—Hardy 4, Leonard, Timberman, Edwards, Axtel. Goals from fouls: For St. Lawrence, 6; For Middlebury eLonard. Substitutions: For St. Lawrence, Hunt for Morgan; For Middlebury, Timberman for Reinbrecht, Edwards for Ryan. Referee, Sission, Dartmouth Timekeeper, Cole '22. Time of periods 20 minutes.

Mr. MacDonald was born in Blues Mills, Nova Scotia in 1867. He prepared for college in the Boston Latin School and Monson Academy, and entered Middlebury in 1888. He is a member of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

About fifty pupils attended the first regular business meeting of the newly formed Middlebury Dramatic Club, conducted in Old Chapel by Professor Burrage of the department of Greek. The constitution and by-laws were voted upon and adopted.

The club, the first of its kind to come into existence at Middlebury, is to be literary in its scpoe. Professor Burrage announced that its members are not to be merely star actors and actresses, but all those who write plays, who have a fondness for the drama, and who, though perhaps not actually taking part in the casts, are eager to utilize their facilties in costuming, scene-designing, or any of the other responsibilities which go to make up a successful performance.

The club plans to stage plays written by Middlebury students, by Middlebury graduates, and by notable foreign and American authors. Professor Burrage declared that they would be able to produce at least three short plays before the Easter recess.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon Professor W. S. Burrage was elected direcotr and Dorothy Douglas, secretary. These three officers together with the chairman of such committees as may be appointed will constitute the executive committee.

CONDEMNS COLLEGE UNDERGRADUATES

Large Proportion Lack Ability to Act

Professor A. P. Fitch of Amherst Preaches Stirring Sermon Sunday

The speaker at Sunday Vespers was Professor Albert Parker Fitch from Amherst College, Amherst, Mass.

Dr. Fitch used the story of the fourth chapter of St. Matthew as the subject of his sermon.

When Jesus was baptized by John the Baptist there came to Him the spirit of genius and the consciousness of His mission; when He began to think about what He had to give the world then He was sorely tempted. This same temptation comes to us time and again in many different forms. We think we have a vision of some phase of life as it ought to be, or we know of a mistake that could be made right, but we lack the initiative to take a decisive step forward, not because we do not wish to but because it is so much easier to wait and let some one else be the first to try the proposed plan. No one can retain his self-respect who has no moral courage and who lacks the power to do what he believes to be true and right and to live up to it.

Dr. Fitch said that the two tragic things about the American college are that so many people can graduate without thinking at all, and that on the other hand so many have the power to see visions and dream great dreams but lack the strength of will to live up to the best that there is in life.

"We are living in a new age since the war, and upon the younger generation rests the burden of carrying out the better standards of life and moral conduct", said Dr. Fitch in concluding.

Dr. Fitch graduated from Harvard in the class of 1900. He was ordained for the Congregational ministry in 1903 and became pastor of the First church in Flushing, L. I. in the same year and the Mt. Vernon church, Boston from 1905 to 1909. He was president of the Andover Theological Seminary, Cambridge, 1909-17 and since 1917, professor of Religion, Amherst College. He is a member of Delta Upsilon and an honorary member of Phi Beta Kappa Fraternities. He is the author of "The College Course and the Preparation for Life," Religion and the Undergraduate" and "Can the Church Survive the Changing Order?"

Y. W. C. A. BAZAAR FRIDAY A SUCCESS

Large Atendance Enjoys Pleasing Program

Cakes, Candy, Arts and Crafts Booths and Grab Bag Attract Many

The Y. W. C. A. Bazaar held Friday evening in the McCullough Gymnasium proved a decided success from every viewpoint and was well patronized by faculty, undergraduates, and townspeople. The various booths were attractively decorated with Valentine colors, red hearts and streamers against a white background forming a large part of the decoration.

The Arts and Crafts table proved a big center of attraction, closely rivalled by the ice cream, food and card booths, where the committees were kept busy supplying the constant demand. The grab bag in its novel heart form was a big drawing card while the sale of confetti and gay-colored baloons by Yama-Yama and Valentine girls was a decided feature.

The "Shifters Symphony Orchestra," a company of girls attired in fancy dress costume, made a fitting opening for the entertainment. They were followed by a "Spring Dance," in which Miss Kathleen Kirby showed ability in her graceful interpretation of the dance. "April Showers" was sung by Miss Beryle Gaylor, the ballet in gray, violet, yellow and blue representing the clouds, spring flowers and blue birds of the song. Margaret Billings and Dorothy Douglas as the girl and boy in a dramatized song, "Bon Jour Ma Belle" were especially pleasing.

"The Curtain Act", which was kept as a surprise until the last minute proved to be a burlesque of the Ross-Ashley act of the "Follies." It was very cleverly done by Misses Madeleine Gaylor and Edris Thayer, who met country for a similar purpose.

The entire staff of the Summer Session, the whole student body, and all the courses of instruction must be arranged anew each year, a task which involves more detailed work than was required by the administration of the entire college previous to very recent years. In fact the total receipts from the Summer Session of 1921 were more than twice the total annual receipts of the college in any year previous to 1906-07 and exceeded the total income of the college in any year previous to 1910-11, nearly equaling the income of that year. The tuitions collected by The Summer Session of 1921 exceeded the total tuitions collected by the college in any year previous to 1910-11 and were more than three times the amount of the tuitions collected in any year previous to President Thomas's administration.

Language Schools Second to None

While the present enviable reputation of the Summer Session has been built upon the work of the modern language schools, which are second to none in the world, it is Dr. Collins' belief that Middlebury can make valuable contributions to the educational life of the country through other special schools. While the School of English at Bread Loaf and the Chemistry School on the campus have not yet reached the importance of the modern language schools, they have made most gratifying beginnings. The English School in particular has had a remarkable success in the two years of its operation and the accommodations at Bread Loaf are quite inadequate to take care of all the business which awaits it the coming summer. To meet so far as possible the needs of the situation at Bread Loaf, Dr. Collins has been entrusted with the general oversight of the Inn for the season of 1922.

Dr. Collins' withdrawal from the active work of the college during the academic year recalls that his was the guiding spirit in the organization of the Department of Pedagogy of which he has been the Head since its founding in 1909. So rapidly was the strength of this Department established and so favorable was its reputation throughout the State that its success enabled President Thomas to secure increasingly large state appropriations at successive legislative session.

An enviable reputation was created for Middlebury teachers, not only in Vermont but through a constantly widening field, as a result of the policies and the training furnished by this department. Practice teaching was arranged, a survey of secondary education was made covering practically all the high schools and academies of Vermont, a loan library was established to make available to the teachers and school officers of the State the books of the pedagogical library, bulletins were published and many addresses in Vermont and other states were given by Dr. Collins and his colleagues.

Dr. Collins Prepared Programs

The work of the Curriculum Committee also reflects in many particulars Dr. Collins' leadership. He has been chairman of this committee from the time he came to Middlebury until his recent resignation. The present Group System with its major and minor requirements not only reflects the work of the Committee but in many painstaking details the personal service of Dr. Collins himself. The last important report of this Committee published in the bulletin entitled "Programs for College Students" has attracted wide attention and very favorable comment. Requests for it have come from colleges, normal schools, and educational committees.

During the war period and in the months immediately following Dr. Thomas' resignation, Dr. Collins served as Acting President. The period following demobilization of the S. A. T. C. was a critical one, and it is to the credit of Middlebury that within a few weeks after demobilization the college reopened after the Christmas recess with 150 men in attendance. In recognition of his services during this difficult time, the Trustees, upon Dr. Thomas' return to College, appointed Dr. Collins Provost and invited the continuance of his services in various administrative capacities touching both upon business management and academic relations. His belief in Middlebury, his loyalty, and his enthusiasm in service have never wavered during the period of his connection with the college.

MIDDLEBURY HOLDS WINTER CARNIVAL

sary to decide the 200 yard ski dash. In the final Shelvey, Peck and M. Ross finished one, two and three respectively, in very fast time. Holquist and Harvey had a good fight first in the 200 yard snow shoe dash but Holquist crossed the line in the lead. Doe took third place.

The ski and snow shoe obstacle races comprised the usual barrel, saw horse, rope and sweater hazzards but the time for the event was very fast. Drost took first place in the skiing event and Crane and M. Ross tied for second. The time was 1:59. Robinson captured the snow shoe event in 1:55. Klock took third and Yeaw fourth.

Miss Baldwin led the field home in the co-ed snow shoe dash and Miss Littlefield came in second. Miss Crathern and Miss Jennings tied for third.

Walsh Wins Ski Jump

Following the races on the campus the scene was shifted to the recently erected ski jump in the rear of the Chapman estate. Fourteen men were entered in the event and each was allowed three jumps. In judging the men account was taken both of distance and form. Walsh '23 was high point man with a score of 130. The others rated above 100 ran as follows: Peck, 115; Carlton, 104; Baldwin, 103; Klock, 102; Brown, 101; Jakway, 100.

The evening was devoted to tobogganing on the slide erected in front of Hepburn Hall. About sixty people enjoyed the sport. The slide was illuminted by colored flare lights and fireworks added to the carnival atmosphere.

ASSOCIATED ALUMNI

Appeal for Annual Dues of Associated Alumni—Plan to Publish Alumni News Letter

To the Editor of The Campus:—

I am very glad of the opportunity to get in touch, through your columns, with those of the Associated Alumni who are sufficiently interested in the life of the college to be counted among The Campus subscribers.

The constitution of the Associated Alumni of Middlebury College includes as members all men graduates of the college together with the faculty, trustees, and such others as may be elected honorary members.

The Association has not been very active for some time past. Last year no attempt was made to collect the $1.00 dues and no great success had attended the efforts of preceding years.

Times have changed, and a feeling of optimism prevails that the country has turned definitely toward a period of healthy prosperity so that it is entirely in keeping with the spirit of the times that the alumni should stir themselves and endeavor to rejuvenate the Association that it too may enter upon a period of healthful prosperity.

The prospects of the college were never brighter than at present, and its friends may confidently look for an advance in growth and vigor under the leadership of President Moody that will exceed that of any previous period of Middlebury's history.

In order that the alumni may be kept more closely in touch with the college, a plan is under way to publish at intervals an Alumni News Letter or Bulletin devoted exclusively to alumni and college interests. Such a plan is most worthy, but requires a sufficient show of interest on the part of the Associated Alumni to make them willing to pay dues of $1.00, as well as the money itself, if it is to be a success.

An appeal for the 1922 dues was sent February 1 to the seven hundred and sixty men graduates and the response to date has been decidedly meager, as only seventy have acknowledged it, which is less than 10 per cent. Now if Middlebury alumni are loyal as a whole and want to keep in touch with their college and its work, it ought not to take long to get returns from 75 per cent of the graduates. Will you help do it?

ST. MICHAEL'S QUINTET DEFEATS 'VARSITY 32- 22

The Middlebury 'varsity basketball team went down to defeat Wednesday evening in McCullough Gymnasium when the St. Michael's quintet invaded the local court for the last home game of the season. The Saints returned victors by the easy score 32-22.

The Winooski team played an aggressive game from the start and soon jumped into the lead which the Middlebury team was unable to overcome. The floorwork of the visitors was fast and effective and outplayed the Blue at almost all stages of thegame.

Capt. Leonard, as usual, played a fine game for Middlebury, but Fitzsimmons, the Purple forward, was the individual star of the game.

the somewhat difficult requirements of the situation with just the right degree of restraint.

"Cinderella in Pantomine" showed carefcl preparation, the entire cast from Cinderella down acquitting itself admirably. The minuet scene with its slow graceful movement was especially charming, the well-chosen costumes adding greatly to the general effectiveness. The dance of the faries and that of the pages were notable. Music was furnished at intermission by Fitzpatrick's seven piece orchestra.

The following financial report has been made by the committee:

Tickets, $82.00; Fancy Work, $85.00; Food, $20.00; Ice Cream, $5.00; Candy, $30.00; Grab Bag, $6.50; Confetti and balloon, $6.50; Total $235.00. General Expenses: Tickets, programs and decorations, $16.00. Cleared $219.00.
